Purpose

Both parties wish to share confidential information to explore the possibility of working together on innovation consultancy services to commercialize the project.

Definition of Recipient

Each party receiving confidential information from the other is referred to as "the Recipient."

Confidentiality Obligation

The Recipient agrees not to use the confidential information for anything other than the stated purpose unless written permission is obtained.

Security & Disclosure

The Recipient must keep the information secure and may only share it with employees or advisors who need it for the purpose and are also bound by confidentiality obligations.

Exceptions

Confidentiality does not apply to information that:

- Becomes publicly available (without breach of this agreement).
- The Recipient already knew before receiving it, without any confidentiality obligations.

Legal Disclosure

If required by law or a legal authority, the Recipient may disclose the confidential information.

Return of Information

Upon request, the Recipient must return or destroy all copies of the confidential information.

Intellectual Property

This agreement does not grant the Recipient any rights to the other party's intellectual property.

Duration

The confidentiality obligations remain in effect for two years from the agreement date.

Governing Law

This agreement is governed by English law, and disputes will be handled by English courts.
